Lake Wobegon -- where the women are strong, the men are good looking and all the children are above average -- has become America's collective hometown, visited weekly for the past 40 years on a fictional radio program that creates authentic nostalgia. With his Prairie Home Companion, Garrison Keillor became our national philosopher, filling the shoes of Will Rogers and Mark Twain, through his running commentary about the human condition and the social politic. With biting wit, a quirky perspective and an uncanny ability to hone in on the pulse of America, Keillor's themes and characters are somehow familiar to us all, resonating a shared experience. For more than a year, our camera has followed this great raconteur -- and his motley crew of actors, musicians and technical staff -- as he criss-crosses the country, broadcasting, recording and revealing himself.

St. Valentine's Day Massacre - HISTORY DETECTIVES stares down the barrel of a shotgun for clues that one of Al Capone's men fired it in a Chicago gang massacre that shocked the nation. The gun came to the contributor's family after it was handed down through two generations of prominent Chicago families. It's a Western Field single-barreled repeating action 12-gauge shotgun. The barrel and the stock were once shortened just the way the Capone gang liked its guns: easy to conceal and with greater destructive force. HISTORY DETECTIVES host Elyse Luray tests the gun's firepower, consults with ballistics experts and combs through physical evidence to see if she can place this gun at the scene of the crime. Booth Letter - A contributor gave HISTORY DETECTIVES a letter indicating that, 30 years before John Wilkes Booth assassinated Abraham Lincoln, Booth's father threatened to kill another sitting president, Andrew Jackson. Signed "Junius Brutus Booth," the letter to Jackson reads, "You damn'd old scoundrel ... I will cut your throat whilst you are sleeping." The writer insists that Jackson pardon two men who were sentenced to death. Why did the fate of these two men incite such fury? HISTORY DETECTIVES host Tukufu Zuberi travels to Nashville to consult historians at The Hermitage, the ancestral home of President Andrew Jackson, and to Washington, DC, to talk with a Booth biographer. Was the letter a hoax? Or did assassination run in the Booth blood? Cemetery Alarm - A Midland, Michigan, man who collects war munitions snapped up an item at an estate auction that looked like a Civil War-era weapon. On closer inspection, after consulting with other collectors, he decided he had a grave alarm: an explosive device meant to guard against grave robbers. Is this truly a grave alarm? HISTORY DETECTIVES host Wes Cowan's investigation winds through tales of body snatching and cadaver dissecting, unusual crimes and the most unlikely suspects.

In the ongoing war against hypocrisy, conservatism, political correctness, prejudice, prudery, censorship, sentimentality, liberalism, extremism and complacency, it was always the comedian who led the first wave of attack. Rather than using risqué jokes and four letter words simply to get a rise out of an audience, the most audacious comedians - from pioneers like Mae West and Moms Mabley to 60s and 70s bad boys like Lenny Bruce, Richard Pryor and George Carlin - invoked what the First Amendment to the American Constitution calls "freedom of speech" to bring the biggest and most dangerous laughs to the American public.

The 12-hour, six-part documentary series, directed by Burns and co-produced with his longtime colleague, Dayton Duncan, who also wrote the script, is the story of an idea as uniquely American as the Declaration of Independence and just as radical: that the most special places in the nation should be preserved, not for royalty or the rich, but for everyone.

Tokyo Rose Recording--A HISTORY DETECTIVES viewer has a recording he thinks holds evidence used in the World War II treason trial of Iva Tugori, aka Tokyo Rose. Toguri was an American citizen who hosted a Japanese propaganda radio show broadcast to U.S. troops serving in the Pacific. These broadcasts were at the center of what was then the costliest trial in U.S. history. The viewer has never been able to play his oversized record, but family lore says it reveals the role his uncle played in this infamous show trial. HISTORY

DETECTIVES host Gwendolyn Wright consults with experts from Long Island to Los Angeles. Her answer flips assumptions of guilt and innocence, and gives viewers a fresh angle on what actually happened in and around that trial. Crazy Horse Photo--Twenty-five years ago, someone gave a leather purse to a Lakota businessman. Inside the purse he found a photograph and a note, dated 1904, written in the Lakota language. An elderly man from the Lakota community translated the note. In brief, it says, "This is a photograph of Crazy Horse." Does the contributor have the Holy Grail of the Wild West: a photo of the Lakota warrior who defeated General Custer? Historians are suspicious of most photos purported to be of Crazy Horse. The Lakota leader avoided cameras, believing they would rob his soul. To verify the photo, HISTORY DETECTIVE host Elyse Luray tracks down a Crazy Horse descendant and visits the Crazy Horse Memorial. Finally, she puts the photo in context with other works by the same photographer at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, DC. WWII DIARY (encore presentation)--A man in Lexington, North Carolina, has a poignant diary written by a World War II pilot. He inherited the diary 20 years ago from his father, who said it once belonged to a close friend whom he fought alongside in WWII, until the war took his friend's life in 1944. Keeping the last thoughts of this fallen soldier is now too great a burden for the contributor. Can HISTORY DETECTIVES return it to a living relative? The stakes are raised as the diary pages reveal the story of a young American pilot stationed in England, racing against time and all odds to return home before the birth of his first child. Host Wes Cowan heads to Florida on a quest to reunite the diary with the pilot's surviving family.

This film brings to life the remarkable stories behind the legendary group of New Deal-sponsored photographers who traversed the country in the 1930s and early 1940s, capturing the face of Depression-era America. The program explores the personal vision and the struggles experienced by photographers Gordon Parks, Dorothea Lange, Russell Lee, Walker Evans, Marion Post Wolcott and Jack Delano, who created some of the most iconic images in history. This unlikely group of photographers and artists was brought together by a fiery prairie populist and government bureaucrat named Roy Stryker. Julian Bond narrates.

This film focuses not just on Cole's celebrity, but on the Civil Rights Movement and how this performer uniquely broke through major racial barriers in the entertainment industry -- he was the first black American to have his own national radio show, in 1948, and he was the first black American to have his own television show, in 1956. His musical origins were as a young Chicago jazz pianist but he became known as -- and accepted as, even in those turbulent times -- a melodious, smooth singer of such popular songs as Mona Lisa, Too Young, It's Only a Paper Moon, Unforgettable and the Christmas season perennial Chestnuts Roasting on an Open Fire. With open access to the Cole family -- including, of course, his daughter Natalie -- and his record label (EMI) archives, a picture of great courage is painted.

The loss of a liberal lion, plus the Justice Department versus the CIA and the good news-bad news economy, tonight, on Washington Week. Thousands of mourners paid respects today to a man who lived the past and looked to the future. Sen. Ted Kennedy (D-MA) said, "This November, the torch will be passed again to a new generation of Americans." Pres. Barack Obama noted, "His ideas and ideals are stamped on scores of laws and reflected in millions of lives." Ted Kennedy's passing was not unexpected, but it leaves a void on domestic issues like health care. Sen. Chris Dodd (D-CT) said, "My hope is that this will maybe cause people to take a breath, step back, and start talking with each other again in more civil tones about what needs to be done." And on bipartisanship. Vice Pres. Joe Biden said, "He was never small. And in the process of his doing, he made everybody he worked with bigger." As Massachusetts and the nation mourns, what comes next? In other news, Attorney General Eric Holder goes toe-to-toe with CIA Director Leon Panetta over detainee interrogations. "If threatening a prisoner with an electric drill isn't torture, I'm not sure what is." How far will the investigation go? And as Fed Chairman Ben Bernanke wins reappointment, stocks gain but deficit projections explode. Is there a silver lining anywhere? Covering the week, David Broder of the Washington Post, Karen Tumulty of Time Magazine, Pete Williams of NBC News, and David Wessel of the Wall Street Journal.

In 1851, word spreads across the country of a beautiful area of California's Yosemite Valley, attracting visitors who wish to exploit the land's scenery for commercial gain and those who wish to keep it pristine. Among the latter is a Scottish-born wanderer named John Muir, for whom protecting the land becomes a spiritual calling. In 1864, Congress passes an act that protects Yosemite from commercial development for "public use, resort and recreation" - the first time in world history that any government has put forth this idea - and hands control of the land to California. Meanwhile, a "wonderland" in the northwest corner of the Wyoming territory attracts visitors to its bizarre landscape of geysers, mud pots and sulfur pits. In 1872, Congress passes an act to protect this land as well. Since it is located in a territory, rather than a state, it becomes America's first national park: Yellowstone.

This film brings to life the remarkable stories behind the legendary group of New Deal-sponsored photographers who traversed the country in the 1930s and early 1940s, capturing the face of Depression-era America. The program explores the personal vision and the struggles experienced by photographers Gordon Parks, Dorothea Lange, Russell Lee, Walker Evans, Marion Post Wolcott and Jack Delano, who created some of the most iconic images in history. This unlikely group of photographers and artists was brought together by a fiery prairie populist and government bureaucrat named Roy Stryker. Julian Bond narrates.

This film focuses not just on Cole's celebrity, but on the Civil Rights Movement and how this performer uniquely broke through major racial barriers in the entertainment industry -- he was the first black American to have his own national radio show, in 1948, and he was the first black American to have his own television show, in 1956. His musical origins were as a young Chicago jazz pianist but he became known as -- and accepted as, even in those turbulent times -- a melodious, smooth singer of such popular songs as Mona Lisa, Too Young, It's Only a Paper Moon, Unforgettable and the Christmas season perennial Chestnuts Roasting on an Open Fire. With open access to the Cole family -- including, of course, his daughter Natalie -- and his record label (EMI) archives, a picture of great courage is painted.

The loss of a liberal lion, plus the Justice Department versus the CIA and the good news-bad news economy, tonight, on Washington Week. Thousands of mourners paid respects today to a man who lived the past and looked to the future. Sen. Ted Kennedy (D-MA) said, "This November, the torch will be passed again to a new generation of Americans." Pres. Barack Obama noted, "His ideas and ideals are stamped on scores of laws and reflected in millions of lives." Ted Kennedy's passing was not unexpected, but it leaves a void on domestic issues like health care. Sen. Chris Dodd (D-CT) said, "My hope is that this will maybe cause people to take a breath, step back, and start talking with each other again in more civil tones about what needs to be done." And on bipartisanship. Vice Pres. Joe Biden said, "He was never small. And in the process of his doing, he made everybody he worked with bigger." As Massachusetts and the nation mourns, what comes next? In other news, Attorney General Eric Holder goes toe-to-toe with CIA Director Leon Panetta over detainee interrogations. "If threatening a prisoner with an electric drill isn't torture, I'm not sure what is." How far will the investigation go? And as Fed Chairman Ben Bernanke wins reappointment, stocks gain but deficit projections explode. Is there a silver lining anywhere? Covering the week, David Broder of the Washington Post, Karen Tumulty of Time Magazine, Pete Williams of NBC News, and David Wessel of the Wall Street Journal.

Surrogacy: Wombs for Rent? Commercial surrogacy--when women are paid to carry and deliver babies for people who cannot conceive them biologically--is banned in almost every developed country in the world except the U.S., making it a land of opportunity for parents around the world. In June, celebrity parents Matthew Broderick and Sarah Jessica Parker announced publicly they had twins delivered via surrogate. But surrogacy services and their oversight vary from state to state, creating a strong potential for deceit and fraud. This week, NOW's Senior Correspondent Maria Hinojosa follows the surrogate pregnancy of a single mother over the course of several months. When she was 14 weeks pregnant, the surrogate agency that brokered the deal between her and the future parents vanished, leaving the woman stranded without health insurance and nowhere to turn. NOW investigates how shady surrogacy services and a lack of regulation in the U.S. may be defrauding hopeful parents and victimizing mothers trying to help them.

Gambling with Health Care: Losing your job is a blow not just to your income, but also to your health insurance. Many can't afford high COBRA premiums, much less private insurance. And the sputtering economy is making a bad situation tragic. NOW travels to Nevada, where a huge budget deficit, spiking unemployment, and cuts in Medicaid and other public services are forcing people to gamble with their own lives. Recently, the only public hospital in Las Vegas had to shut its doors to cancer patients and pregnant women. Should the government be helping out? NOW shares the human stories behind the distressing numbers, and investigates possible solutions and responses with insight from Dr. Howard Dean, former Vermont governor and chairman of the Democratic National Committee. With the economic disaster blowing holes in society's health care safety net, who's left to catch our fall?

The loss of a liberal lion, plus the Justice Department versus the CIA and the good news-bad news economy, tonight, on Washington Week. Thousands of mourners paid respects today to a man who lived the past and looked to the future. Sen. Ted Kennedy (D-MA) said, "This November, the torch will be passed again to a new generation of Americans." Pres. Barack Obama noted, "His ideas and ideals are stamped on scores of laws and reflected in millions of lives." Ted Kennedy's passing was not unexpected, but it leaves a void on domestic issues like health care. Sen. Chris Dodd (D-CT) said, "My hope is that this will maybe cause people to take a breath, step back, and start talking with each other again in more civil tones about what needs to be done." And on bipartisanship. Vice Pres. Joe Biden said, "He was never small. And in the process of his doing, he made everybody he worked with bigger." As Massachusetts and the nation mourns, what comes next? In other news, Attorney General Eric Holder goes toe-to-toe with CIA Director Leon Panetta over detainee interrogations. "If threatening a prisoner with an electric drill isn't torture, I'm not sure what is." How far will the investigation go? And as Fed Chairman Ben Bernanke wins reappointment, stocks gain but deficit projections explode. Is there a silver lining anywhere? Covering the week, David Broder of the Washington Post, Karen Tumulty of Time Magazine, Pete Williams of NBC News, and David Wessel of the Wall Street Journal.

To the Congress, the new senator from Minnesota and the Supreme Court term ends, tonight on "Washington Week." Gen. Ray Odierno said, "I think from a military and security standpoint it's time for us to move out of the cities." The deadline arrived and U.S. troops left town, but 130,000 service members remain. And the violence continues. Where do we stand in Iraq? At home, President Obama tackles other ups and downs, a win last week on climate change and uncertain path ahead on health care. In Minnesota, an election decided eight months after the voting ended. SEN. AL FRANKEN (D-MN) said, "Well, it was close, but we won." Sotomayor at the Senate, health care reform lurches forward, mixed news on the economy, and keeping secrets from Congress, tonight on Washington Week. Sonia Sotomayor said, "Many senators have asked me about my judicial philosophy. Simple: fidelity to the law." Sonia Sotomayor speaks and so do senators, firefighters, supporters and detractors. After four days of Judiciary Committee hearings, were any minds changed? Sen. Dianne Feinstein (D-CA) said, "I find her remarkable. She gets a 10 for judicial temperament." Sen. Lindsey Graham (R-SC) said, "Unless you have a complete meltdown, you're going to get confirmed. But what lines were drawn in the sand by the time the hearings were over? Elsewhere on Capitol Hill, health care legislation began emerging from the House and the Senate complete with deep partisan fault lines. Sen. Chris Dodd (D-CT) said, "Even though this wasn't a bipartisan vote, it's a bipartisan effort. Sen. Orrin Hatch (R-UT) said, "Democrats have completely shut us out of the process." And the nation's economic dilemma grows even more complicated. Pres. Barack Obama said, "I'm absolutely confident that we will weather this economic storm." But as big firms post new profits, some economists wonder if there really is a life at tunnel's end. Plus, a controversial plan to assassinate al Qaeda terrorists runs afoul of Congress. This week NOW, as part of a collaboration with the nonprofit investigative unit ProPublica, explores the controversial tactic of "preventative detention," a government plan that may detain suspects indefinitely without trial or even formal charges. Implementing such a plan may have far-reaching consequences on not just our fight against terrorism, but the integrity of the U.S. Constitution and the cause of human rights. Even with President Obama in office and Guantanamo's days numbered, we're still asking: What price will we pay for peace on the ground and peace of mind?

A raucous presidential speech and a grim anniversary, tonight on Washington Week. President Barack Obama said, "The time for bickering is over. The time for games has passed. Now is the season for action." Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) said, "I think it's fair to say that the President's speech was really a game changer." However, Rep. John Boehner (R-OH) said, "There was nothing new in the president's speech last night." Game changer or nothing new? The president's big health care speech sets off another round of debate and a fair bit of recrimination too. Whether it was the president declaring that his plan would not hurt senior citizens--Pres. Obama said, "It is a lie plain and simple." -- or Republican Joe Wilson (R-SC) using the same word to denounce the president stating, "You lie." Lively debates everywhere you look in Washington this week, even as the Supreme Court weighs in on campaign finance law. Justice Stephen Breyer said, "I am suggesting we'll make a hash of this statute." While today the nation pauses to consider the consequences of 9/11 eight years later. Covering the week: Charles Babington of the Associated Press, Peter Baker of the New York Times, Joan Biskupic of USA Today, and Doyle McManus of the Los Angeles Times.

Surrogacy: Wombs for Rent? Commercial surrogacy--when women are paid to carry and deliver babies for people who cannot conceive them biologically--is banned in almost every developed country in the world except the U.S., making it a land of opportunity for parents around the world. In June, celebrity parents Matthew Broderick and Sarah Jessica Parker announced publicly they had twins delivered via surrogate. But surrogacy services and their oversight vary from state to state, creating a strong potential for deceit and fraud. This week, NOW's Senior Correspondent Maria Hinojosa follows the surrogate pregnancy of a single mother over the course of several months. When she was 14 weeks pregnant, the surrogate agency that brokered the deal between her and the future parents vanished, leaving the woman stranded without health insurance and nowhere to turn. NOW investigates how shady surrogacy services and a lack of regulation in the U.S. may be defrauding hopeful parents and victimizing mothers trying to help them.

Lake Wobegon -- where the women are strong, the men are good looking and all the children are above average -- has become America's collective hometown, visited weekly for the past 40 years on a fictional radio program that creates authentic nostalgia. With his Prairie Home Companion, Garrison Keillor became our national philosopher, filling the shoes of Will Rogers and Mark Twain, through his running commentary about the human condition and the social politic. With biting wit, a quirky perspective and an uncanny ability to hone in on the pulse of America, Keillor's themes and characters are somehow familiar to us all, resonating a shared experience. For more than a year, our camera has followed this great raconteur -- and his motley crew of actors, musicians and technical staff -- as he criss-crosses the country, broadcasting, recording and revealing himself.

TIME TEAM AMERICA heads to the picturesque and remote canyons of southern Utah to examine what remains of the Fremont Indians who vanished 1,000 years ago. The Fremont stashed their food in clay granaries high on the cliffs of these canyons. They entered their underground homes through a hole in the ceiling, and they decorated rock walls with petroglyphs that remain a mystery to this day. Utah's state archaeologist calls in TIME TEAM AMERICA to examine some of the most pristine and puzzling archaeology in the United States. The team probes the ground, scales the cliffs, and learns what life was like in these canyons a thousand years ago.

In this special presentation from the United Kingdom's groundbreaking archaeology series, Time Team takes viewers on an expedition to Jamestown, where a British company's commercial enterprise planted the seeds of the United States. There have been nearly a million finds from the site's trenches, but this anniversary special is far more than just an excavation. The team retrieves piles of perfectly preserved 17th-century pieces, traces the names and life stories of the early American pioneers, and learns why a third of them died within months of arrival. The colonists at Jamestown went looking for gold and silver. Instead, they found fertile soil, tough conditions, and the beginnings of the world's most powerful nation. Then, in part two of this two hour special, we travel back to England, where Britain's most famous archaeologists discover what secrets lie buried beneath several of the world's most famous residences. Time Team tears into The Queen's gardens in an unprecedented opportunity to unearth the secrets of Windsor Castle and Buckingham Palace, where the royal finds include the foundation of a fourteenth century building where Edward III honored the legendary Arthurian knights.

Reality check, the president in Russia and in Rome, while domestic pressures build at home. Plus, Palin 2012 -- why it might yet happen, tonight on "Washington Week." Meeting popes and presidents -- it's all part of the job for any U.S. leader. Pres. Barack Obama says, "And we've not agreed on every point, but we've shown that it's possible to move forward and make real and unprecedented progress together." Still, from climate change abroad to economic and health care fixes at home, President Obama saw more hurdles than hoorays this week. Vice Pres. Joe Biden says, "The truth is there was a misreading of just how bad an economy we inherited." Pres. Obama says, "Rather than say misread, we had incomplete information." Rep. John Boehner (R-OH) says, "Now, this is the greatest fabrication I've seen since I've been in Congress." Are health care and economic stimulus off track, and what can the president do to get them back on? Plus, the week's political mystery. Gov. Sarah Palin says, "I'm not going to close any door that may be open for me out there." Is Sarah Palin's career over or just beginning? Covering the week: Doyle McManus of the "Los Angeles Times," Ceci Connolly of the "Washington Post," Deborah Solomon of the "Wall Street" Journal, and James Barnes of "National Journal."

Sotomayor at the Senate, health care reform lurches forward, mixed news on the economy, and keeping secrets from Congress, tonight on Washington Week. Sonia Sotomayor said, "Many senators have asked me about my judicial philosophy. Simple: fidelity to the law." Sonia Sotomayor speaks and so do senators, firefighters, supporters and detractors. After four days of Judiciary Committee hearings, were any minds changed? Sen. Dianne Feinstein (D-CA) said, "I find her remarkable. She gets a 10 for judicial temperament." Sen. Lindsey Graham (R-SC) said, "Unless you have a complete meltdown, you're going to get confirmed. But what lines were drawn in the sand by the time the hearings were over? Elsewhere on Capitol Hill, health care legislation began emerging from the House and the Senate complete with deep partisan fault lines. Sen. Chris Dodd (D-CT) said, "Even though this wasn't a bipartisan vote, it's a bipartisan effort. Sen. Orrin Hatch (R-UT) said, "Democrats have completely shut us out of the process." And the nation's economic dilemma grows even more complicated. Pres. Barack Obama said, "I'm absolutely confident that we will weather this economic storm." But as big firms post new profits, some economists wonder if there really is a life at tunnel's end. Plus, a controversial plan to assassinate al Qaeda terrorists runs afoul of Congress. A surprise report on unemployment, the debate of health care reform begins in earnest across America, and Bill Clinton's excellent adventure. I'm John Dickerson, sitting in for Gwen Ifill, tonight on Washington Week. Tempered optimism on the economy. Pres. Barack Obama, said, "This morning we received additional signs that the worst may be behind us." From brighter unemployment news, to showrooms conducting commerce again, the economy seems to be on the rebound, but is it the president's doing? The debate over health care moves from Washington. Sen. Jim Demint said, "The Democrats are fighting any real health care reform. They're insistent on a single-payer government takeover." To the heartland, where it's gotten noisy. Sen. Harry Reid said, "In spite of those loud, shrill voices trying to interrupt town hall meetings and just throwing a monkey wrench into everything, we're going to continue to be positive and work hard." Is August make or break time for health care reform? And the secret mission to North Korea by Bill Clinton. Does the release of two captured journalists signal a thaw with the reclusive Korean leader? The loss of a liberal lion, plus the Justice Department versus the CIA and the good news-bad news economy, tonight, on Washington Week. Thousands of mourners paid respects today to a man who lived the past and looked to the future. Sen. Ted Kennedy (D-MA) said, "This November, the torch will be passed again to a new generation of Americans." Pres. Barack Obama noted, "His ideas and ideals are stamped on scores of laws and reflected in millions of lives." Ted Kennedy's passing was not unexpected, but it leaves a void on domestic issues like health care. Sen. Chris Dodd (D-CT) said, "My hope is that this will maybe cause people to take a breath, step back, and start talking with each other again in more civil tones about what needs to be done." And on bipartisanship. Vice Pres. Joe Biden said, "He was never small. And in the process of his doing, he made everybody he worked with bigger." As Massachusetts and the nation mourns, what comes next? In other news, Attorney General Eric Holder goes toe-to-toe with CIA Director Leon Panetta over detainee interrogations. "If threatening a prisoner with an electric drill isn't torture, I'm not sure what is." How far will the investigation go? And as Fed Chairman Ben Bernanke wins reappointment, stocks gain but deficit projections explode. Is there a silver lining anywhere?

Republicans and Democrats grow even further apart on healthcare, on defense, on just about everything. We explore why, tonight on Washington Week. The healthcare fight brings out the big guns. Sen. Max Baucus (D-MT) said, "This is our chance to reform healthcare in America. We cannot let this opportunity pass." President Barack Obama said, "I will not waste time with those who've made the calculation it's better to kill health reform than to improve our healthcare system." Rep. Anthony Weiner (D-NY) said, "What we are saying to the United States Senate, to the Gang of Six, is thanks but no thanks." First Lady Michelle Obama said, "The status quo is unacceptable. It is holding women and families back." And the fight morphs into a larger cultural debate.
Former President Jimmy Carter stated, "An overwhelming portion of the intensely demonstrated animosity towards President Barack Obama is based on the fact that he is a black man." Rep. Mike Pence (R-IN) said, "I believe we are on the brink of a great American awakening and it will begin here, and begin now, and begin with you." The U.S. reverses course on missile defense abroad and immediately goes on the defensive at home. Robert Gates (Secretary of Defense) said, "Those who say we are scrapping missile defense in Europe are either misinformed or misrepresenting the reality of what we are doing."
While one year after a giant financial meltdown some see signs of hope. Ben Bernanke (Fed Chairman) said, "Prospects for a return to growth in the near term appear good." We go to the reporters covering the week: Ceci Connolly of the Washington Post, John Harwood of CNBS and the New York Times, Martha Raddatz of ABC News, and Greg Ip of the Economist.

This inspiring profile travels to Mozambique, where a bold grassroots initiative is training midwives in advanced life-saving surgery and reducing the maternal death rate by half. The program follows student Emilia Cumbane through intensive medical classes and night shifts in the delivery ward as she learns to handle the grave complications pregnant women experience in developing countries worldwide. WIDE ANGLE is in the operating room as Cumbane performs her first caesarian section; viewers witness the beginning of one woman making a difference on the frontlines of public health in Africa. Mozambique's controversial program, the first of its kind in the world, may offer a solution to the life-threatening lack of doctors in other developing countries.

Presidential rumor control in the health care debate, calling the shots in the battle against swine flu, Hillary Clinton's mission to Africa, and what's next for Afghanistan. I'm Pete Williams sitting in for Gwen Ifill, tonight on Washington Week. The president takes to the road to put out wildfires over health care reform. Pres. Barack Obama said, "The way politics works sometimes is that people who want to keep things the way they are will try to scare the heck out of folks." How fear about an end-of-life provision has become the viral talking point in the reform debate. The start of the school year also means flu season is just around the corner. The younger individuals and pregnant women appear to be much more vulnerable to serious disease. The government's plan to get ahead of the swine flu virus. Hillary Clinton spends 11 days in Africa, but was it a lost-in-translation moment that overshadowed her mission? Secretary of State Hillary Clinton said, "Wait, you want me to tell you what my husband thinks? My husband is not the secretary of state. I am." Questions of substance and standing for the secretary of state. And while U.S. troops drawdown in Iraq, the fighting intensifies in Afghanistan on the eve of presidential elections there. Secretary of Defense Robert Gates said, "They're obviously holding an election in adverse circumstances. How the Taliban is forcing changes in U.S. strategy. In Part 1 of WIDE ANGLE's unprecedented, award-winning 12-year documentary project, Time for School, returns in 2009 with visits to seven classrooms in seven countries to offer a glimpse into the lives of seven extraordinary children who are struggling to get what nearly all American kids take for granted: a basic education. We started filming in 2002, watching as kids first entered school in Afghanistan, Benin, Brazil, India, Japan, Kenya and Romania, many despite great odds. Several years later, in 2006, we returned to film an update--and now, three years later, we travel to check in on our young teenagers who are making the precarious transition to middle school. These children's stories put a human face on the shocking fact that more than 75 million children are currently out of school; of these, two thirds are girls. One in four children in developing countries does not complete five years of basic education, and there are nearly one billion illiterate adults--one-sixth of the world's people. WIDE ANGLE plans to continue revisiting all the children, and their peers and families, through 2015, the year they should graduate--and, not coincidentally, the U.N.'s target date for achieving universal education, a Millennium Development goal endorsed by all 191 members of the United Nations. While each child in Time for School 3 has a unique story, taken together their lives tell an epic tale, shedding light on one of the most urgent and under-reported stories of our time.

A surprise report on unemployment, the debate of health care reform begins in earnest across America, and Bill Clinton's excellent adventure. I'm John Dickerson, sitting in for Gwen Ifill, tonight on Washington Week. Tempered optimism on the economy. Pres. Barack Obama, said, "This morning we received additional signs that the worst may be behind us." From brighter unemployment news, to showrooms conducting commerce again, the economy seems to be on the rebound, but is it the president's doing? The debate over health care moves from Washington. Sen. Jim Demint said, "The Democrats are fighting any real health care reform. They're insistent on a single-payer government takeover." To the heartland, where it's gotten noisy. Sen. Harry Reid said, "In spite of those loud, shrill voices trying to interrupt town hall meetings and just throwing a monkey wrench into everything, we're going to continue to be positive and work hard." Is August make or break time for health care reform? And the secret mission to North Korea by Bill Clinton. Does the release of two captured journalists signal a thaw with the reclusive Korean leader? Covering these stories this week John Harwood of CNBC and the New York Times, Peter Baker of the New York Times, and Martha Raddatz of ABC News.

As the largest predator in Africa, the lion should have nothing to fear. But the king of the savannah is facing an uncertain future. While concentrating on the dwindling number of elephants and rhinos, nobody suspected the biggest of big cats was in trouble. When the number of lions turned out to be fewer than 30,000 and not 100,000 as previously estimated, it was clear that the great lion had become vulnerable. We hear from lion experts, farmers and Masai herdsman as they explore solutions to the problems of saving lions and living with them.

PBS presents a preview of the new Ken Burns film NATIONAL PARKS: AMERICA'S BEST IDEA. The 12-hour, six-part documentary series, directed by Burns and co-produced with his longtime colleague, Dayton Duncan, who also wrote the script, is the story of an idea as uniquely American as the Declaration of Independence and just as radical: that the most special places in the nation should be preserved, not for royalty or the rich, but for everyone.

Reality check, the president in Russia and in Rome, while domestic pressures build at home. Plus, Palin 2012 -- why it might yet happen, tonight on "Washington Week." Meeting popes and presidents -- it's all part of the job for any U.S. leader. Pres. Barack Obama says, "And we've not agreed on every point, but we've shown that it's possible to move forward and make real and unprecedented progress together." Still, from climate change abroad to economic and health care fixes at home, President Obama saw more hurdles than hoorays this week. Vice Pres. Joe Biden says, "The truth is there was a misreading of just how bad an economy we inherited." Pres. Obama says, "Rather than say misread, we had incomplete information." Rep. John Boehner (R-OH) says, "Now, this is the greatest fabrication I've seen since I've been in Congress." Are health care and economic stimulus off track, and what can the president do to get them back on? Plus, the week's political mystery. Gov. Sarah Palin says, "I'm not going to close any door that may be open for me out there." Is Sarah Palin's career over or just beginning? Covering the week: Doyle McManus of the "Los Angeles Times," Ceci Connolly of the "Washington Post," Deborah Solomon of the "Wall Street" Journal, and James Barnes of "National Journal."

From the beginning, honeybees have played a key role in human survival. Most fruit trees and vegetable species are entirely dependent on bees to produce, and there's no artificial replacement for natural pollination. But the bees are disappearing. Massive die-offs, first reported in November 2006, are now the subject of international emergency research as scientists race to discover the cause of this ecological disaster. Could it be a disease? Is it caused by pesticides, genetically modified foods or radiation from cell phone towers? Whatever is happening, we must solve the mystery and correct the problem soon or face unimaginable consequences.

As temperatures and sea levels rise, the world is scrambling to stop global warming - a threat the UN Secretary General has described as "the defining issue of our era." But international consensus is slow to emerge, and debate over how to slow climate change continues. WIDE ANGLE travels to Indonesia, where rainforest areas equivalent to 300 soccer fields are cut down and burnt every hour to clear land for crops such as oil palms. New studies show that the devastation of Indonesia's forests has helped to make it the world's third-largest emitter of carbon dioxide - exceeded only by the U.S. and China. How to reduce these harmful greenhouse gas emissions? Dorjee Sun, a 29-year-old Australian green entrepreneur, thinks he has a solution: his idea involves selling the carbon credits represented by large forest areas in three Indonesian provinces to polluters in the West. "Burning Season" follows Sun on a whirlwind trip to boardrooms around the world - from Starbucks to eBay to Merrill Lynch - as he tries to convince skeptical financiers that his proposal is viable. To carry out the plan, local political leaders in the jungle of Indonesia must also agree that their forests are worth more alive than dead. Meanwhile, small farmers like Achmadi, whose survival depends on cutting down trees to plant oil palms, fear the layers of government officials will be the only ones in his country making money from the carbon credit project. "Burning Season" captures both sides of the climate divide and explores whether commercialism can step in where altruism has so far failed to succeed.

A remote lake in Southeast Asia conceals evidence of Earth's greatest volcanic cataclysm of the last 100,000 years. Miles beneath its placid surface lies a magma chamber that exploded so violently during the Ice Age that gases and ash may have encircled the globe and blotted out the sun for years on end. The Toba eruption may have helped kick the climate into an unprecedented freeze and perhaps even pushed ancestral human populations to the brink of extinction. In a classic science detective story, NOVA pieces together the clues about this great catastrophe and probes questions raised about human evolution and Earth's fragile ecosystems.

By the end of the 19th century, widespread industrialization has left many Americans worried about whether the country - once a vast wilderness - will have any pristine land left. At the same time, poachers in the parks are rampant, and visitors think nothing of littering or carving their names near iconic sites like Old Faithful. Congress has yet to establish clear judicial authority or appropriations for the protection of the parks. This sparks a conservation movement by organizations such as the Sierra Club, led by John Muir; the Audubon Society, led by George Bird Grinnell; and the Boone and Crockett Club, led by Theodore Roosevelt. The movement fails, however, to stop San Francisco from building the Hetch Hetchy dam at Yosemite, flooding Muir's "mountain temple" and leaving him broken-hearted before he dies.

This film focuses not just on Cole's celebrity, but on the Civil Rights Movement and how this performer uniquely broke through major racial barriers in the entertainment industry -- he was the first black American to have his own national radio show, in 1948, and he was the first black American to have his own television show, in 1956. His musical origins were as a young Chicago jazz pianist but he became known as -- and accepted as, even in those turbulent times -- a melodious, smooth singer of such popular songs as Mona Lisa, Too Young, It's Only a Paper Moon, Unforgettable and the Christmas season perennial Chestnuts Roasting on an Open Fire. With open access to the Cole family -- including, of course, his daughter Natalie -- and his record label (EMI) archives, a picture of great courage is painted.

In a provocative report from the frontiers of biology, NOVA explores new findings that call into question the long-held belief that all inherited traits are passed on by our genes. The fast-growing field of epigenetics investigates hidden influences that could affect not only our health today but that of our descendants far into the future. It now seems that our environment makes small chemical changes to our DNA without affecting the gene's overall makeup. To put it another way, epigenetics adds to our DNA another layer that acts as a control system of "switches." Experiential factors such as nutrition or stress may trigger these switches and turn genes on or off. These subtle changes can then be "remembered" and passed on from generation to generation, altering inherited traits. This means the lives of our grandparents - the air they breathed, the food they ate, even the things they saw - could have directly affected us, and that what we do could, in turn, affect our grandchildren. NOVA explores this fascinating new idea, interviewing top scientists in the field and following what could be a paradigm shift in the way we think about inheritance and genes.

Surrogacy: Wombs for Rent? Commercial surrogacy--when women are paid to carry and deliver babies for people who cannot conceive them biologically--is banned in almost every developed country in the world except the U.S., making it a land of opportunity for parents around the world. In June, celebrity parents Matthew Broderick and Sarah Jessica Parker announced publicly they had twins delivered via surrogate. But surrogacy services and their oversight vary from state to state, creating a strong potential for deceit and fraud. This week, NOW's Senior Correspondent Maria Hinojosa follows the surrogate pregnancy of a single mother over the course of several months. When she was 14 weeks pregnant, the surrogate agency that brokered the deal between her and the future parents vanished, leaving the woman stranded without health insurance and nowhere to turn. Republicans and Democrats grow even further apart on healthcare, on defense, on just about everything. We explore why, tonight on Washington Week. The healthcare fight brings out the big guns. Sen. Max Baucus (D-MT) said, "This is our chance to reform healthcare in America. We cannot let this opportunity pass." President Barack Obama said, "I will not waste time with those who've made the calculation it's better to kill health reform than to improve our healthcare system." Rep. Anthony Weiner (D-NY) said, "What we are saying to the United States Senate, to the Gang of Six, is thanks but no thanks." First Lady Michelle Obama said, "The status quo is unacceptable. It is holding women and families back." And the fight morphs into a larger cultural debate. Former President Jimmy Carter stated, "An overwhelming portion of the intensely demonstrated animosity towards President Barack Obama is based on the fact that he is a black man." Rep. Mike Pence (R-IN) said, "I believe we are on the brink of a great American awakening and it will begin here, and begin now, and begin with you." The U.S. reverses course on missile defense abroad and immediately goes on the defensive at home. Robert Gates (Secretary of Defense) said, "Those who say we are scrapping missile defense in Europe are either misinformed or misrepresenting the reality of what we are doing." While one year after a giant financial meltdown some see signs of hope. Ben Bernanke (Fed Chairman) said, "Prospects for a return to growth in the near term appear good." We go to the reporters covering the week: Ceci Connolly of the Washington Post, John Harwood of CNBS and the New York Times, Martha Raddatz of ABC News, and Greg Ip of the Economist.

This inspiring profile travels to Mozambique, where a bold grassroots initiative is training midwives in advanced life-saving surgery and reducing the maternal death rate by half. The program follows student Emilia Cumbane through intensive medical classes and night shifts in the delivery ward as she learns to handle the grave complications pregnant women experience in developing countries worldwide. WIDE ANGLE is in the operating room as Cumbane performs her first caesarian section; viewers witness the beginning of one woman making a difference on the frontlines of public health in Africa. Mozambique's controversial program, the first of its kind in the world, may offer a solution to the life-threatening lack of doctors in other developing countries.

To the Congress, the new senator from Minnesota and the Supreme Court term ends, tonight on "Washington Week." Gen. Ray Odierno said, "I think from a military and security standpoint it's time for us to move out of the cities." The deadline arrived and U.S. troops left town, but 130,000 service members remain. And the violence continues. Where do we stand in Iraq? At home, President Obama tackles other ups and downs, a win last week on climate change and uncertain path ahead on health care. In Minnesota, an election decided eight months after the voting ended. SEN. AL FRANKEN (D-MN) said, "Well, it was close, but we won." While winners and losers are still sorting out this year's Supreme Court term. Covering the week: Martha Raddatz of ABC

Sotomayor at the Senate, health care reform lurches forward, mixed news on the economy, and keeping secrets from Congress, tonight on Washington Week. Sonia Sotomayor said, "Many senators have asked me about my judicial philosophy. Simple: fidelity to the law." Sonia Sotomayor speaks and so do senators, firefighters, supporters and detractors. After four days of Judiciary Committee hearings, were any minds changed? Sen. Dianne Feinstein (D-CA) said, "I find her remarkable. She gets a 10 for judicial temperament." Sen. Lindsey Graham (R-SC) said, "Unless you have a complete meltdown, you're going to get confirmed. But what lines were drawn in the sand by the time the hearings were over? Elsewhere on Capitol Hill, health care legislation began emerging from the House and the Senate complete with deep partisan fault lines. Sen. Chris Dodd (D-CT) said, "Even though this wasn't a bipartisan vote, it's a bipartisan effort. Sen. Orrin Hatch (R-UT) said, "Democrats have completely shut us out of the process." And the nation's economic dilemma grows even more complicated. Pres. Barack Obama said, "I'm absolutely confident that we will weather this economic storm." But as big firms post new profits, some economists wonder if there really is a life at tunnel's end. Plus, a controversial plan to assassinate al Qaeda terrorists runs afoul of Congress. Six months in, is the president truly hitting a rough patch, or are the White House and the Congress in a standoff? We take a look, tonight on Washington Week. As the president's popularity begins to slide, the test narrows down to the future of health care. Pres. Barack Obama said, "Nobody is talking about some government takeover of health care. I'm tired of hearing that." Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) said, "The only problem we have with having a bipartisan bill is the Republican leadership in the Senate." Sen. Mitch McConnell (R-KY) said, "Some in Congress seem to be in such a rush--such a rush to pass any reform rather than the right reform." Sen. Chuck Grassley (R-IA) said, "The trouble is you folks are looking for news and there ain't no news." But there has been news and it's all about complicated choices, whether it's about reviving the economy. Pres. Obama said, "We now have problems. We're going to have to tighten our belt. But we can't do it in the middle of the stimulus. We can't do it in the middle--just as the economy is coming out of recession. Sen. Jim Demint (R-SC) said, "He's taken a bad economy and made it worse." Or tackling racial reconciliation by photo-op, whatever happened to the summer doldrums?. A special program this week--your questions, our answers, all on the hot topic of this hot month: health care, tonight, on Washington Week. The questions are coming fast and furious. One man asked, "Why are we inviting 50 million illegal invaders, who broke federal law, into our health care system?" Then, a woman asked, "Why do you continue to support a Nazi policy as Obama has expressly supported this policy, why are you supporting it?" Rep. Barney Frank (D-MA) said, "On what planet do you spend most of your time?" But who do you trust to give you the answers. The president is trying. Pres. Barack Obama said, "We're going to have to cut through a lot of nonsense out there, a lot of absurd claims that have been made about health insurance reform." But is it too little too late? One woman said, "Call your senator. Stop the government takeover of health care." We asked for your questions and hundreds of you responded. Tonight's answers come from the reporters who have been covering the story--Ceci Connolly of the Washington Post, Peter Baker of the New York Times, Naftali Bendavid of the Wall Street Journal, and Jeanne Cummings of Politico.

Summer vacation's over -- and how. We'll talk about it all tonight on Washington Week. It fell to the vice president to make the week's most straightforward observation about the prospects for a health care reform. The president puts all his chips on the table next week with a back-in-business address to a joint session of Congress. Health care is priority number one, but other issues loom: an increasingly unpopular war in Afghanistan. Secretary of Defense Robert Gates said, "I absolutely do not think it is time to get out of Afghanistan." -- a still struggling economy and a slippery political environment, all signal a tough autumn ahead. Joining us tonight for our Labor Day preview: Dan Balz of the Washington Post, Jackie Calmes of the New York Times, John Dickerson of Slate Magazine and CBS News, and Martha Raddatz of ABC News.

In a provocative report from the frontiers of biology, NOVA explores new findings that call into question the long-held belief that all inherited traits are passed on by our genes. The fast-growing field of epigenetics investigates hidden influences that could affect not only our health today but that of our descendants far into the future. It now seems that our environment makes small chemical changes to our DNA without affecting the gene's overall makeup. To put it another way, epigenetics adds to our DNA another layer that acts as a control system of "switches." Experiential factors such as nutrition or stress may trigger these switches and turn genes on or off. These subtle changes can then be "remembered" and passed on from generation to generation, altering inherited traits. This means the lives of our grandparents - the air they breathed, the food they ate, even the things they saw - could have directly affected us, and that what we do could, in turn, affect our grandchildren. NOVA explores this fascinating new idea, interviewing top scientists in the field and following what could be a paradigm shift in the way we think about inheritance and genes.

Surrogacy: Wombs for Rent? Commercial surrogacy--when women are paid to carry and deliver babies for people who cannot conceive them biologically--is banned in almost every developed country in the world except the U.S., making it a land of opportunity for parents around the world. In June, celebrity parents Matthew Broderick and Sarah Jessica Parker announced publicly they had twins delivered via surrogate. But surrogacy services and their oversight vary from state to state, creating a strong potential for deceit and fraud. This week, NOW's Senior Correspondent Maria Hinojosa follows the surrogate pregnancy of a single mother over the course of several months. When she was 14 weeks pregnant, the surrogate agency that brokered the deal between her and the future parents vanished, leaving the woman stranded without health insurance and nowhere to turn. NOW investigates how shady surrogacy services and a lack of regulation in the U.S. may be defrauding hopeful parents and victimizing mothers trying to help them.

Segment Length: 00:56:46

Stress. It's always been there to save our lives. It's what made us run from predators and enabled us to take down prey. But today, humans are turning on that same stress response to deal with 30-year mortgages, difficult bosses, teenagers and traffic jams. Some of us are wallowing in corrosive hormones; for the first time, scientists can reveal just how measurable and dangerous that exposure can be. MacArthur "Genius Grant" recipient and Stanford University neurobiologist Robert Sapolsky and National Geographic search for answers to why stress seems to be killing us.

On the world stage--nuclear threats in Iran, terror threats at home, turning points in Afghanistan, and the health care standoff on Capitol Hill, tonight on Washington Week. President Barack Obama said, "Those who used to chastise America for acting alone in the world cannot now stand by and wait for America to solve the world's problems alone." And what problems they are. World leaders reveal Iran's new nuclear ambitions. Prime Minister Gordon Brown said, "America, the United Kingdom, and France are at one. Iran's nuclear program is the most urgent proliferation challenge that the world faces today." Generals and bureaucrats search for common ground in the Afghanistan war debate. President Obama stated, "The most important thing I wanted was us to refocus on why we're there." And a new domestic terror plot reveals al Qaeda's continuing influence. Meanwhile, lawmakers on Capitol Hill duel to a standoff on health care reform. Sen. John Kyl (R-AZ) said, "Mr. Chairman, let me just complete my thought here." Sen. Max Baucus (D-MT) said, "In about one minute, you'll complete your thought. Okay, we've got..." Sen. Kyl then stated, "I'll complete my thought, and then make another point, Mr. Chairman." "It's just you're delaying, Senator, and we just have to move on," Sen. Baucus said. Sen. Kyl said, "Mr. Chairman, Mr. Chairman, I am not delaying. I'm making an extremely important point." Sen. Baucus, "It's a very, very important point, but you're also delaying." Bad blood everywhere. We look at why with the reporters covering the week Doyle McManus of the Los Angeles Times, Nancy Youssef of McClatchy newspapers, Pete Williams of NBC News, and Karen Tumulty of Time Magazine.

Lake Wobegon -- where the women are strong, the men are good looking and all the children are above average -- has become America's collective hometown, visited weekly for the past 40 years on a fictional radio program that creates authentic nostalgia. With his Prairie Home Companion, Garrison Keillor became our national philosopher, filling the shoes of Will Rogers and Mark Twain, through his running commentary about the human condition and the social politic. With biting wit, a quirky perspective and an uncanny ability to hone in on the pulse of America, Keillor's themes and characters are somehow familiar to us all, resonating a shared experience. For more than a year, our camera has followed this great raconteur -- and his motley crew of actors, musicians and technical staff -- as he criss-crosses the country, broadcasting, recording and revealing himself.

A surprise report on unemployment, the debate of health care reform begins in earnest across America, and Bill Clinton's excellent adventure. I'm John Dickerson, sitting in for Gwen Ifill, tonight on Washington Week. Tempered optimism on the economy. Pres. Barack Obama, said, "This morning we received additional signs that the worst may be behind us." From brighter unemployment news, to showrooms conducting commerce again, the economy seems to be on the rebound, but is it the president's doing? The debate over health care moves from Washington. Sen. Jim Demint said, "The Democrats are fighting any real health care reform. They're insistent on a single-payer government takeover." To the heartland, where it's gotten noisy. Sen. Harry Reid said, "In spite of those loud, shrill voices trying to interrupt town hall meetings and just throwing a monkey wrench into everything, we're going to continue to be positive and work hard." Is August make or break time for health care reform? And the secret mission to North Korea by Bill Clinton. Does the release of two captured journalists signal a thaw with the reclusive Korean leader? Sotomayor at the Senate, health care reform lurches forward, mixed news on the economy, and keeping secrets from Congress, tonight on Washington Week. Sonia Sotomayor said, "Many senators have asked me about my judicial philosophy. Simple: fidelity to the law." Sonia Sotomayor speaks and so do senators, firefighters, supporters and detractors. After four days of Judiciary Committee hearings, were any minds changed? Sen. Dianne Feinstein (D-CA) said, "I find her remarkable. She gets a 10 for judicial temperament." Sen. Lindsey Graham (R-SC) said, "Unless you have a complete meltdown, you're going to get confirmed. But what lines were drawn in the sand by the time the hearings were over? Elsewhere on Capitol Hill, health care legislation began emerging from the House and the Senate complete with deep partisan fault lines. Sen. Chris Dodd (D-CT) said, "Even though this wasn't a bipartisan vote, it's a bipartisan effort. Sen. Orrin Hatch (R-UT) said, "Democrats have completely shut us out of the process." And the nation's economic dilemma grows even more complicated. Pres. Barack Obama said, "I'm absolutely confident that we will weather this economic storm." But as big firms post new profits, some economists wonder if there really is a life at tunnel's end. Plus, a controversial plan to assassinate al Qaeda terrorists runs afoul of Congress. Six months in, is the president truly hitting a rough patch, or are the White House and the Congress in a standoff? We take a look, tonight on Washington Week. As the president's popularity begins to slide, the test narrows down to the future of health care. Pres. Barack Obama said, "Nobody is talking about some government takeover of health care. I'm tired of hearing that." Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) said, "The only problem we have with having a bipartisan bill is the Republican leadership in the Senate." Sen. Mitch McConnell (R-KY) said, "Some in Congress seem to be in such a rush--such a rush to pass any reform rather than the right reform." Sen. Chuck Grassley (R-IA) said, "The trouble is you folks are looking for news and there ain't no news." But there has been news and it's all about complicated choices, whether it's about reviving the economy. Pres. Obama said, "We now have problems. We're going to have to tighten our belt. But we can't do it in the middle of the stimulus. We can't do it in the middle--just as the economy is coming out of recession. Sen. Jim Demint (R-SC) said, "He's taken a bad economy and made it worse." Or tackling racial reconciliation by photo-op, whatever happened to the summer doldrums?. This film focuses not just on Cole's celebrity, but on the Civil Rights Movement and how this performer uniquely broke through major racial barriers in the entertainment industry -- he was the first black American to have his own national radio show, in 1948, and he was the first black American to have his own television show, in 1956. His musical origins were as a young Chicago jazz pianist but he became known as -- and accepted as, even in those turbulent times -- a melodious, smooth singer of such popular songs as Mona Lisa, Too Young, It's Only a Paper Moon, Unforgettable and the Christmas season perennial Chestnuts Roasting on an Open Fire. With open access to the Cole family -- including, of course, his daughter Natalie -- and his record label (EMI) archives, a picture of great courage is painted.

To the Congress, the new senator from Minnesota and the Supreme Court term ends, tonight on "Washington Week." Gen. Ray Odierno said, "I think from a military and security standpoint it's time for us to move out of the cities." The deadline arrived and U.S. troops left town, but 130,000 service members remain. And the violence continues. Where do we stand in Iraq? At home, President Obama tackles other ups and downs, a win last week on climate change and uncertain path ahead on health care. In Minnesota, an election decided eight months after the voting ended. SEN. AL FRANKEN (D-MN) said, "Well, it was close, but we won." While winners and losers are still sorting out this year's Supreme Court term. Six months in, is the president truly hitting a rough patch, or are the White House and the Congress in a standoff? We take a look, tonight on Washington Week. As the president's popularity begins to slide, the test narrows down to the future of health care. Pres. Barack Obama said, "Nobody is talking about some government takeover of health care. I'm tired of hearing that." Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) said, "The only problem we have with having a bipartisan bill is the Republican leadership in the Senate." Sen. Mitch McConnell (R-KY) said, "Some in Congress seem to be in such a rush--such a rush to pass any reform rather than the right reform." Sen. Chuck Grassley (R-IA) said, "The trouble is you folks are looking for news and there ain't no news." But there has been news and it's all about complicated choices, whether it's about reviving the economy. Pres. Obama said, "We now have problems. We're going to have to tighten our belt. But we can't do it in the middle of the stimulus. We can't do it in the middle--just as the economy is coming out of recession. Sen. Jim Demint (R-SC) said, "He's taken a bad economy and made it worse." Or tackling racial reconciliation by photo-op, whatever happened to the summer doldrums?. Gambling with Health Care: Losing your job is a blow not just to your income, but also to your health insurance. Many can't afford high COBRA premiums, much less private insurance. And the sputtering economy is making a bad situation tragic. NOW travels to Nevada, where a huge budget deficit, spiking unemployment, and cuts in Medicaid and other public services are forcing people to gamble with their own lives. Recently, the only public hospital in Las Vegas had to shut its doors to cancer patients and pregnant women. Should the government be helping out? NOW shares the human stories behind the distressing numbers, and investigates possible solutions and responses with insight from Dr. Howard Dean, former Vermont governor and chairman of the Democratic National Committee. With the economic disaster blowing holes in society's health care safety net, who's left to catch our fall?

A surprise report on unemployment, the debate of health care reform begins in earnest across America, and Bill Clinton's excellent adventure. I'm John Dickerson, sitting in for Gwen Ifill, tonight on Washington Week. Tempered optimism on the economy. Pres. Barack Obama, said, "This morning we received additional signs that the worst may be behind us." From brighter unemployment news, to showrooms conducting commerce again, the economy seems to be on the rebound, but is it the president's doing? The debate over health care moves from Washington. Sen. Jim Demint said, "The Democrats are fighting any real health care reform. They're insistent on a single-payer government takeover." To the heartland, where it's gotten noisy. Sen. Harry Reid said, "In spite of those loud, shrill voices trying to interrupt town hall meetings and just throwing a monkey wrench into everything, we're going to continue to be positive and work hard." Is August make or break time for health care reform? And the secret mission to North Korea by Bill Clinton. Does the release of two captured journalists signal a thaw with the reclusive Korean leader? Covering these stories this week John Harwood of CNBC and the New York Times, Peter Baker of the New York Times, and Martha Raddatz of ABC News.

The loss of a liberal lion, plus the Justice Department versus the CIA and the good news-bad news economy, tonight, on Washington Week. Thousands of mourners paid respects today to a man who lived the past and looked to the future. Sen. Ted Kennedy (D-MA) said, "This November, the torch will be passed again to a new generation of Americans." Pres. Barack Obama noted, "His ideas and ideals are stamped on scores of laws and reflected in millions of lives." Ted Kennedy's passing was not unexpected, but it leaves a void on domestic issues like health care. Sen. Chris Dodd (D-CT) said, "My hope is that this will maybe cause people to take a breath, step back, and start talking with each other again in more civil tones about what needs to be done." And on bipartisanship. Vice Pres. Joe Biden said, "He was never small. And in the process of his doing, he made everybody he worked with bigger." As Massachusetts and the nation mourns, what comes next? In other news, Attorney General Eric Holder goes toe-to-toe with CIA Director Leon Panetta over detainee interrogations. "If threatening a prisoner with an electric drill isn't torture, I'm not sure what is." How far will the investigation go? And as Fed Chairman Ben Bernanke wins reappointment, stocks gain but deficit projections explode. Is there a silver lining anywhere? Covering the week, David Broder of the Washington Post, Karen Tumulty of Time Magazine, Pete Williams of NBC News, and David Wessel of the Wall Street Journal.

This week NOW, as part of a collaboration with the nonprofit investigative unit ProPublica, explores the controversial tactic of "preventative detention," a government plan that may detain suspects indefinitely without trial or even formal charges. Implementing such a plan may have far-reaching consequences on not just our fight against terrorism, but the integrity of the U.S. Constitution and the cause of human rights. Even with President Obama in office and Guantanamo's days numbered, we're still asking: What price will we pay for peace on the ground and peace of mind?

A raucous presidential speech and a grim anniversary, tonight on Washington Week. President Barack Obama said, "The time for bickering is over. The time for games has passed. Now is the season for action." Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV) said, "I think it's fair to say that the President's speech was really a game changer." However, Rep. John Boehner (R-OH) said, "There was nothing new in the president's speech last night." Game changer or nothing new? The president's big health care speech sets off another round of debate and a fair bit of recrimination too. Whether it was the president declaring that his plan would not hurt senior citizens--Pres. Obama said, "It is a lie plain and simple." -- or Republican Joe Wilson (R-SC) using the same word to denounce the president stating, "You lie." Lively debates everywhere you look in Washington this week, even as the Supreme Court weighs in on campaign finance law. Justice Stephen Breyer said, "I am suggesting we'll make a hash of this statute." While today the nation pauses to consider the consequences of 9/11 eight years later. Covering the week: Charles Babington of the Associated Press, Peter Baker of the New York Times, Joan Biskupic of USA Today, and Doyle McManus of the Los Angeles Times.

In the early 20th century, America has a dozen national parks, but they are a haphazard patchwork of special places under the supervision of different federal agencies. The conservation movement, after failing to stop the Hetch Hetchy dam, pushes the government to establish one unified agency to oversee all the parks, leading to the establishment of the National Park Service in 1916. Its first director, Stephen Mather, a wealthy businessman and passionate park advocate who fought vigorously to establish the NPS, launches an energetic campaign to expand the national park system and bring more visitors to the parks. Among his efforts is to protect the Grand Canyon from encroaching commercial interests and establish it as a national park, rather than a national monument.

Republicans and Democrats grow even further apart on healthcare, on defense, on just about everything. We explore why, tonight on Washington Week. The healthcare fight brings out the big guns. Sen. Max Baucus (D-MT) said, "This is our chance to reform healthcare in America. We cannot let this opportunity pass." President Barack Obama said, "I will not waste time with those who've made the calculation it's better to kill health reform than to improve our healthcare system." Rep. Anthony Weiner (D-NY) said, "What we are saying to the United States Senate, to the Gang of Six, is thanks but no thanks." First Lady Michelle Obama said, "The status quo is unacceptable. It is holding women and families back." And the fight morphs into a larger cultural debate. Former President Jimmy Carter stated, "An overwhelming portion of the intensely demonstrated animosity towards President Barack Obama is based on the fact that he is a black man." Rep. Mike Pence (R-IN) said, "I believe we are on the brink of a great American awakening and it will begin here, and begin now, and begin with you." The U.S. reverses course on missile defense abroad and immediately goes on the defensive at home. Robert Gates (Secretary of Defense) said, "Those who say we are scrapping missile defense in Europe are either misinformed or misrepresenting the reality of what we are doing." While one year after a giant financial meltdown some see signs of hope. Ben Bernanke (Fed Chairman) said, "Prospects for a return to growth in the near term appear good." We go to the reporters covering the week: Ceci Connolly of the Washington Post, John Harwood of CNBS and the New York Times, Martha Raddatz of ABC News, and Greg Ip of the Economist.

On the world stage--nuclear threats in Iran, terror threats at home, turning points in Afghanistan, and the health care standoff on Capitol Hill, tonight on Washington Week. President Barack Obama said, "Those who used to chastise America for acting alone in the world cannot now stand by and wait for America to solve the world's problems alone." And what problems they are. World leaders reveal Iran's new nuclear ambitions. Prime Minister Gordon Brown said, "America, the United Kingdom, and France are at one. Iran's nuclear program is the most urgent proliferation challenge that the world faces today." Generals and bureaucrats search for common ground in the Afghanistan war debate. President Obama stated, "The most important thing I wanted was us to refocus on why we're there." And a new domestic terror plot reveals al Qaeda's continuing influence. Meanwhile, lawmakers on Capitol Hill duel to a standoff on health care reform. Sen. John Kyl (R-AZ) said, "Mr. Chairman, let me just complete my thought here." Sen. Max Baucus (D-MT) said, "In about one minute, you'll complete your thought. Okay, we've got..." Sen.

Kyl then stated, "I'll complete my thought, and then make another point, Mr. Chairman." "It's just you're delaying, Senator, and we just have to move on," Sen. Baucus said. Sen. Kyl said, "Mr. Chairman, Mr. Chairman, I am not delaying. I'm making an extremely important point." Sen. Baucus, "It's a very, very important point, but you're also delaying." Bad blood everywhere. We look at why with the reporters covering the week Doyle McManus of the Los Angeles Times, Nancy Youssef of McClatchy newspapers, Pete Williams of NBC News, and Karen Tumulty of Time Magazine.

While visiting the parks was once predominantly the domain of Americans wealthy enough to afford the high-priced train tours, the advent of the automobile allows more people than ever before to visit the parks. Mather embraces this opportunity and works to build more roads in the parks. Some park enthusiasts, such as Margaret and Edward Gehrke of Nebraska, begin "collecting" parks, making a point to visit as many as they can. In North Carolina, Horace Kephart, a reclusive writer, and George Masa, a Japanese immigrant, launch a campaign to protect the last strands of virgin forest in the Smoky Mountains by establishing it as a park. In Wyoming, John D. Rockefeller Jr. begins quietly buying up land in the Teton Mountain Range and valley in a secret plan to donate it to the government as a park.

Building a submarine without the resources of a big shipyard and using only scavenged or off-the-shelf parts is an unusual idea by any standard. But Peter Robbins has dreamed of submarines all his life, and he is an unusually determined man. Over the course of four years, Robbins staked everything he owned to build his own submarine, the Alicia, in a bid to explore, first-hand, the sunken wrecks of German U-boats. As an engineer, he is fascinated by the precision of U-boat technology; as an entrepreneur, he is intrigued by the prospect of underwater tourism. Assembled from more than two million parts, at a cost of $1.5 million, will the Alicia be the success he hoped for? NOVA dives into uncharted waters for the maiden voyage of one man's lifelong dream.

Power Struggle: Will the green energy dream come to fruition? This week NOW explores obstacles to the promise of renewables--energy generated from natural resources such as sunlight, wind, and rain. NOW travels to California, which has the most ambitious clean energy plan in the nation. But the state's efforts face stiff opposition from property owners and conservationists who prefer renewable energy from "local sources," such as photovoltaic rooftop solar panels. Complicating the matter are claims that the transmission lines are not actually carrying renewable energy at all, but represent a thinly-disguised strategy to stick to old energy practices.

TIME TEAM AMERICA heads to the picturesque and remote canyons of southern Utah to examine what remains of the Fremont Indians who vanished 1,000 years ago. The Fremont stashed their food in clay granaries high on the cliffs of these canyons. They entered their underground homes through a hole in the ceiling, and they decorated rock walls with petroglyphs that remain a mystery to this day. Utah's state archaeologist calls in TIME TEAM AMERICA to examine some of the most pristine and puzzling archaeology in the United States. The team probes the ground, scales the cliffs, and learns what life was like in these canyons a thousand years ago.

A remote lake in Southeast Asia conceals evidence of Earth's greatest volcanic cataclysm of the last 100,000 years. Miles beneath its placid surface lies a magma chamber that exploded so violently during the Ice Age that gases and ash may have encircled the globe and blotted out the sun for years on end. The Toba eruption may have helped kick the climate into an unprecedented freeze and perhaps even pushed ancestral human populations to the brink of extinction. In a classic science detective story, NOVA pieces together the clues about this great catastrophe and probes questions raised about human evolution and Earth's fragile ecosystems.

In a provocative report from the frontiers of biology, NOVA explores new findings that call into question the long-held belief that all inherited traits are passed on by our genes. The fast-growing field of epigenetics investigates hidden influences that could affect not only our health today but that of our descendants far into the future. It now seems that our environment makes small chemical changes to our DNA without affecting the gene's overall makeup. To put it another way, epigenetics adds to our DNA another layer that acts as a control system of "switches." Experiential factors such as nutrition or stress may trigger these switches and turn genes on or off. These subtle changes can then be "remembered" and passed on from generation to generation, altering inherited traits. This means the lives of our grandparents - the air they breathed, the food they ate, even the things they saw - could have directly affected us, and that what we do could, in turn, affect our grandchildren. NOVA explores this fascinating new idea, interviewing top scientists in the field and following what could be a paradigm shift in the way we think about inheritance and genes.

Sotomayor at the Senate, health care reform lurches forward, mixed news on the economy, and keeping secrets from Congress, tonight on Washington Week. Sonia Sotomayor said, "Many senators have asked me about my judicial philosophy. Simple: fidelity to the law." Sonia Sotomayor speaks and so do senators, firefighters, supporters and detractors. After four days of Judiciary Committee hearings, were any minds changed? Sen. Dianne Feinstein (D-CA) said, "I find her remarkable. She gets a 10 for judicial temperament." Sen. Lindsey Graham (R-SC) said, "Unless you have a complete meltdown, you're going to get confirmed. But what lines were drawn in the sand by the time the hearings were over? Elsewhere on Capitol Hill, health care legislation began emerging from the House and the Senate complete with deep partisan fault lines. Sen. Chris Dodd (D-CT) said, "Even though this wasn't a bipartisan vote, it's a bipartisan effort. Sen. Orrin Hatch (R-UT) said, "Democrats have completely shut us out of the process." And the nation's economic dilemma grows even more complicated. Pres. Barack Obama said, "I'm absolutely confident that we will weather this economic storm." But as big firms post new profits, some economists wonder if there really is a life at tunnel's end. Plus, a controversial plan to assassinate al Qaeda terrorists runs afoul of Congress. Presidential rumor control in the health care debate, calling the shots in the battle against swine flu, Hillary Clinton's mission to Africa, and what's next for Afghanistan. I'm Pete Williams sitting in for Gwen Ifill, tonight on Washington Week. The president takes to the road to put out wildfires over health care reform. Pres. Barack Obama said, "The way politics works sometimes is that people who want to keep things the way they are will try to scare the heck out of folks." How fear about an end-of-life provision has become the viral talking point in the reform debate. The start of the school year also means flu season is just around the corner. The younger individuals and pregnant women appear to be much more vulnerable to serious disease. The government's plan to get ahead of the swine flu virus. Hillary Clinton spends 11 days in Africa, but was it a lost-in-translation moment that overshadowed her mission? Secretary of State Hillary Clinton said, "Wait, you want me to tell you what my husband thinks? My husband is not the secretary of state. I am." Questions of substance and standing for the secretary of state. And while U.S. troops drawdown in Iraq, the fighting intensifies in Afghanistan on the eve of presidential elections there. Secretary of Defense Robert Gates said, "They're obviously holding an election in adverse circumstances. How the Taliban is forcing changes in U.S. strategy. After Guantanamo: Closing Guantanamo Bay's prison will do little to close the debate on what we should do with alleged terrorists. This week NOW, as part of a collaboration with the nonprofit investigative unit ProPublica, explores the controversial tactic of "preventative detention," a government plan that may detain suspects indefinitely without trial or even formal charges. Implementing such a plan may have far-reaching consequences on not just our fight against terrorism, but the integrity of the U.S. Constitution and the cause of human rights. Even with President Obama in office and Guantanamo's days numbered, we're still asking: What price will we pay for peace on the ground and peace of mind?

Summer vacation's over -- and how. We'll talk about it all tonight on Washington Week. It fell to the vice president to make the week's most straightforward observation about the prospects for a health care reform. The president puts all his chips on the table next week with a back-in-business address to a joint session of Congress. Health care is priority number one, but other issues loom: an increasingly unpopular war in Afghanistan. Secretary of Defense Robert Gates said, "I absolutely do not think it is time to get out of Afghanistan." -- a still struggling economy and a slippery political environment, all signal a tough autumn ahead. Joining us tonight for our Labor Day preview: Dan Balz of the Washington Post, Jackie Calmes of the New York Times, John Dickerson of Slate Magazine and CBS News, and Martha Raddatz of ABC News.

Republicans and Democrats grow even further apart on healthcare, on defense, on just about everything. We explore why, tonight on Washington Week. The healthcare fight brings out the big guns. Sen. Max Baucus (D-MT) said, "This is our chance to reform healthcare in America. We cannot let this opportunity pass." President Barack Obama said, "I will not waste time with those who've made the calculation it's better to kill health reform than to improve our healthcare system." Rep. Anthony Weiner (D-NY) said, "What we are saying to the United States Senate, to the Gang of Six, is thanks but no thanks." First Lady Michelle Obama said, "The status quo is unacceptable. It is holding women and families back." And the fight morphs into a larger cultural debate. Former President Jimmy Carter stated, "An overwhelming portion of the intensely demonstrated animosity towards President Barack Obama is based on the fact that he is a black man." Rep. Mike Pence (R-IN) said, "I believe we are on the brink of a great American awakening and it will begin here, and begin now, and begin with you." The U.S. reverses course on missile defense abroad and immediately goes on the defensive at home. Robert Gates (Secretary of Defense) said, "Those who say we are scrapping missile defense in Europe are either misinformed or misrepresenting the reality of what we are doing." While one year after a giant financial meltdown some see signs of hope. Ben Bernanke (Fed Chairman) said, "Prospects for a return to growth in the near term appear good." We go to the reporters covering the week: Ceci Connolly of

Surrogacy: Wombs for Rent? Commercial surrogacy--when women are paid to carry and deliver babies for people who cannot conceive them biologically--is banned in almost every developed country in the world except the U.S., making it a land of opportunity for parents around the world. In June, celebrity parents Matthew Broderick and Sarah Jessica Parker announced publicly they had twins delivered via surrogate. But surrogacy services and their oversight vary from state to state, creating a strong potential for deceit and fraud. This week, NOW's Senior Correspondent Maria Hinojosa follows the surrogate pregnancy of a single mother over the course of several months. When she was 14 weeks pregnant, the surrogate agency that brokered the deal between her and the future parents vanished, leaving the woman stranded without health insurance and nowhere to turn. NOW investigates how shady surrogacy services and a lack of regulation in the U.S. may be defrauding hopeful parents and victimizing mothers trying to help them.

In Part 1 of WIDE ANGLE's unprecedented, award-winning 12-year documentary project, Time for School, returns in 2009 with visits to seven classrooms in seven countries to offer a glimpse into the lives of seven extraordinary children who are struggling to get what nearly all American kids take for granted: a basic education. We started filming in 2002, watching as kids first entered school in Afghanistan, Benin, Brazil, India, Japan, Kenya and Romania, many despite great odds. Several years later, in 2006, we returned to film an update--and now, three years later, we travel to check in on our young teenagers who are making the precarious transition to middle school. These children's stories put a human face on the shocking fact that more than 75 million children are currently out of school; of these, two thirds are girls. One in four children in developing countries does not complete five years of basic education, and there are nearly one billion illiterate adults--one-sixth of the world's people. WIDE ANGLE plans to continue revisiting all the children, and their peers and families, through 2015, the year they should graduate--and, not coincidentally, the U.N.'s target date for achieving universal education, a Millennium Development goal endorsed by all 191 members of the United Nations. While each child in Time for School 3 has a unique story, taken together their lives tell an epic tale, shedding light on one of the most urgent and under-reported stories of our time.
